BIG CHANGES ARE COMING: What Does It Mean for the Advisor of the Future?

This candid, moderated conversation will look at the key trends in the industry and how its' manifesting itself into new investment strategies, product solutions, and pricing models, all against the backdrop of rapid technological and regulatory change that is impacting how advice is delivered. Some would say this hasn't necessarily been either smooth or easy.

Yet others would suggest that while the future of the financial services industry is both under the gun and poised for outstanding success at the same time, the real question to ask is: are you ready for the ride? Mr. Green will ask the audience to consider how resilient their business really is and needs to be, to capture the best of the interesting opportunities the future holds.

Hear from 19 outstanding thought leaders, and network with hundreds of leading advisors, only at DAC.
